

STUDENT VISA

Version: 14/02/2012

This visa allows you to travel to India to study at a university or technological institute, take part in an academic exchange programme, do an internship in a company, follow a course in a language school, dance school or music school. Please note that to enrol in yoga, meditation or vedic culture courses, an Entry visa would be required. Similarly, an Employment visa would be required to do an internship in an NGO or in a company working in the following fields of activity: cinema, television, media, writing, publishing, press, photography, communication, advertising...

Generally, the Consulate General of India issues a visa, with one or multiple entries, valid for the duration of the planned course. In some cases, the validity granted may be more restrictive, in which case you would be required to adapt your project to the visa granted. This visa cannot be exchanged and cannot be extended in India. The Student Visa permits unlimited stay during the validity of the visa but any stay exceeding 6 months requires a registration at the FRO (Foreigner's Registration Office in Delhi) or the FRRO (Foreigner's Regional Registration Office) within 14 days of your arrival in India.

The Consulate General of India does not accept Student Visa applications earlier than 20 days before the start date of the course or internship. Kindly note that visa applications may be accepted, modified or refused by the Consulate General of India in its full right; it may also be subject to additional verifications. For these reasons, we strongly advise against the purchase of a plane ticket before the collection of your visa.
